

The Starting Block game piece.

From Critical Squares: games of Critical Thinking and Understanding. Copyright 1997.
Teacher Ideas Press 1-800-237-6124

Use your browser's print function to print this page.

To assemble: Cut along the solid lines, fold on the solid lines, fold on the dotted lines, and tape together to form a cube.

1.

As a whole group, list as many questions as possible about this topic. Time limit: 3 minutes.

2.

Invent two difficult questions about this topic. Ask the player on your right for help.

3.

What might be the most interesting thing to learn about this topic? What might be the most boring?

4.

Each player in the group must list one thing they already know about this topic.

5.

What interesting steps could you take to learn about this topic? List at least three ideas.

6.

Give a few reasons why it is important to learn about this topic.